New security feature on MR Web sites
SSL certification added to their sites

Hillsborough, CA, July 12, 2012 — OMTI Inc., developer of MetaRecords office management software for records retrieval firms and related businesses like process servers, announces a new service: SSL certification on MR Web online offices.

Secure Sockets Layer (SSL) is a common protocol used for managing secure exchanges of information over the Internet. It's commonly used for e-commerce to protect a buyer's sensitive personal information when purchasing through an online store.

MR Web offices are not online stores; instead they are virtual storehouses of medical records and other files, along with status reports and other business information maintained by records retrieval firms. The data is protected, and passwords are encrypted, which satisfies most records retrieval firms' clients' security requirements. But for those firms whose policy is to have all online data on validated sites only, SSL certification is required.

To purchase SSL certificates can be cost prohibitive. There are costs for implementation and maintenance, plus annual licensing costs. For a recognized name brand, like Symantec/Verisign, the cost is over a thousand dollars annually.

Instead MR Web now includes this additional security for no additional cost. OMTI will add the certification to all MR Web sites and maintain the certificates. With this new feature, MR Web subscribers have third-party validation of their web site identity on every page of their MR Web office by Comodo, whose SSL certificates are trusted by 99.3% of all web browsers.

This service provides 128-bit encryption to hide the contents of files passed online to records retrieval firm clients, like insurance companies. Clients are able to view their documents, status reports, invoices and outstanding balances online, knowing their information is secure from unauthorized viewing or downloading.

For over 25 years, OMTI has provided office management software for court reporting firms, records retrieval companies, and other legal support businesses. RB8 legal support firm software is the number one best-selling office management software for court reporting firms in the country. See our website, <http://www.omti.com>, for more details.
