Transcripts that work better in browsers and on mobile devices

RB Transcript Packages are created by your staff in RB9, and used by your clients in RB Connect and RB Connect Mobile

RB Transcript Packages bundle all the elements into an interactive package so your clients can manage their transcripts easily

If you want to add another transcript service to your business, RB9's Transcript Packages bundle interactive transcripts with their related exhibits, video, and other files to be viewed in a browser through RB Connect and RB Connect Mobile. Your clients will appreciate these virtual transcripts — no hard copies to manage, easy highlighting and notation, transcript and all related pieces in one bundle, and if they want a PDF transcript, they can export it themselves in a variety of formats— even condensed versions.

Faster, more convenient for attorneys

Like RB-PDF Transcripts (RB9's other included transcript creator), you can hyperlink exhibits in Transcript Packages. Unlike PDF transcripts, linked files in RB Transcript Packages are not added into the transcript, keeping file size down and improving speed performance.

When your clients open a Transcript Package in RB Connect or RB Connect Mobile, they can download/view any exhibit image in its native format by clicking a hyperlinked reference to it in the transcript. They do not have to maintain any additional files or file structure to access the exhibits.

While PDF transcripts are designed for print, RB Transcript Packages are designed for screens: standard computer screens and screens on mobile devices like smart phones. If you have RB Connect, your clients can work with their Transcript Packages on any screen; but if you have RB Connect Mobile too, your clients can work in an environment designed for the smaller screens of mobile devices — no pinching and zooming to read and interact with their transcripts.

When exporting transcripts, users can:

Easier for production staff

If you already provide RB-PDF Transcripts to your clients, your production staff will find the process of creating Transcript Packages familiar yet faster.

For example, Transcript Packages, are also created using the original ASCII file. And the linking process is the same as exhibit linking in RB9's PDF Transcript Creator.

Even better is how Transcript Packages can save your staff's time. They do not have to customize the appearance of transcripts. If your clients want their transcripts to look a certain way, they choose customization options when exporting files from Transcript Packages in a browser or on their mobile devices.

Like RB-PDF Transcripts, your production staff can preview Transcript Packages before releasing them. Then they notify clients automatically via email when their Transcript Packages are available. And RB9 automatically logs when the email notification was sent for future reference.

Part of RB9

The function where you create Transcript Packages is included free in RB9.

Transcript Packages are readable in RB Connect on any device with an Internet connection, and in RB Connect Mobile on smartphones and other mobile devices.

RB9 includes 2 transcript creators

In addition to Transcript Packages, you can also create PDF transcripts within RB9. The RB PDF Transcript Creator is included in RB9 subscriptions at no extra cost.

While the 2 transcript creators work similarly, there are some differences, so depending on the situation, you can use the one that fits best.

For example, if your client wants the reporter's digital signature on the transcript, use RB-PDF Transcripts in conjunction with RB's free Digital Signature Proxy service. If your client would rather have a bundled transcript, or one that works on mobile devices, use Transcript Packages. Transcript Packages require RB Connect and RB Connect Mobile (optional) to work for your clients.
